

STOCK SHOW CREATES TALK

Remembrance of Splendid Animals in Great Double Parade of Wednesday Still Strong in Minds of Lovers of Fine Stock

Lovers of fine live stock, and believers in pure blood in milk and beef cattle, and in horses, are still talking about the stock show at the Arizona state fair this year, and the wonderful showing that was made in the great double parade last Wednesday afternoon, when fully 450 blooded animals competition was heavier than ever before, and that two judges and several assistants were kept busily engaged all week up to a late hour yesterday arriving at a final decision as to the merits of certain herds of cattle and specimens of fine horses that were entered and which contested for honors at the big fair.

In view of the fact that many of the animals have been shown at other fairs throughout the United States, and seeing that these animals met in competition with Arizona bred and grown animals and in some cases came out second best, demonstrates that Arizona premiums are worth having now, as never before, and that exhibitors from all over the United States will shortly be shipping prize cattle to this section for the fair week in order that they may compete with Arizona animals for ribbons donated by Arizona for excellence.

There is still another feature that is prominent in connection with this, and that is the fact that this year the stock exhibit was so crowded as to demand were good, but better in the sense of being of larger capacity and offering inducements to more stockmen and dairymen to show their fine stock.

The number of classes of milk cows that thrive here is remarkable. One has only to go along the line of animals on exhibition and note the various breeds to find this out. There are Guernseys, Jerseys, Holsteins, Ayrshires, Red Polled, Brown Swiss, Durham and Dutch Belted, all with cows of lean flanks, carrying immense loads of rich creamy milk. The value of this industry is reflected in the creamery building on the other side of the grounds.

Then there is the horse department that must not be overlooked. This year some of the finest specimens of horse flesh in the country, from the standpoint of general all purpose horses, have been exhibited at the fair. Driving animals, roadsters, saddies, draft horses and mules both light and heavy have been shown. The remembrance of the splendid mules of the Higley Mule ranch and the B-H.

Ayrshire Thoroughbreds in Great Stock Parade on Thursday

were led or driven before thousands of people in the grand stand and around the enclosure of the big track.

It is exceedingly interesting to know that the task of judging the live stock and horses this year, owing to the great added quarters next year. It is more than likely that the commission will endeavor to find better quarters for the cattle department than those occupied this year. Not better in the sense that these were not good, because they

Co., still linger in the minds of the spectators, while the Percherons, the Clydes, the coach animals, and the driving and saddle horses all lead to the conclusion that this is a fine horse country also.

SENATE IN DEADLOCK OVER CURRENCY BILL

Shift in Lineup of Measure Strengthens Position of Administration.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—A shift in the line up of the currency bill strengthened today the position of the administration forces, but left the senate committee in a temporary deadlock. Senators Reed and O'Gorman, who have been opposing parts of the bill in committee, rejoined the democrats and the committee voted to reconsider the decision which cut down from twelve to four, the number of regional banks in the proposed system. Senator Crawford, republican, voted with the democrats to reconsider, but the discussion which waxed warm, lasted all the afternoon and failed to force a vote on the proposition to fix the number of banks at seven. Senator Hitchcock made it plain that he would not swing into line with the other democrats and with a six to six tie in prospect, the administration forces avoided a vote.

Administration senators succeeded today in voting to retain the secretary and treasury on the proposed federal reserve board. The reading of the bill was begun and a number of minor proposals passed upon.

sent of Wilson to his buying guns through Arizona rather than to receive the official recognition of the United States for his government. A case of welcoming sympathy, but looking for some material aid to back it up.

If it is true that Mr. Hale is here, or is coming, then the story is complete, for Dr. Tupper practically assured The Republican's Tucson man last night that he was heading for the Arizona capital on just such a mission as the persistent rumors describe.

It is thought in Tucson that Mr. Hale has been there, signing hotel registers as one "W. H. Hall." In fact a sleuth pointed to the fact that the "Hall" signature had been made such from a hastily scrawled "Hale." The signer left for the west Monday.

Congressman Carl Hayden opined the whole thing was a harmless rumor. "I do not know Mr. Hale. I can't see why Phoenix should be selected for a conference on this matter," he said.

A thing that lends color to the report is the fact that no one in Phoenix has heard that Tupper is coming to deliver his "world peace" lecture.
